RE: T32 Postdoctoral Research Fellowship, University of Pittsburgh

Dear Colleagues,

The Department of Anesthesiology at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for its NIH T32 Postdoctoral Research Fellowship program, Research Training in Anesthesiology and Pain Medicine. The goal of this program is to develop clinician-scientists who will be leaders in the field of anesthesiology research.

Fellows will be paired with established investigators in a variety of scientific and clinical disciplines within the Department of Anesthesiology and in basic science departments throughout the university and will receive rigorous training. Resident or Fellow-level physicians who will be eligible for board examinations in Anesthesiology or Pain Medicine are encouraged to apply. T32 Postdoctoral Research Fellows are expected to spend at least two years and a minimum of 80% effort devoted to research. The training program provides rigorous training and is designed to help residents and fellows to become independent investigators with a rewarding academic career in anesthesiology and pain medicine. The department will also provide continuing support beyond the T32 training period to those who choose to join our faculty in the academic track.

We would appreciate it if you would post the enclosed flyer in your department and/or refer any interested candidates. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis. For further details on the T32 research fellowship, please visit www.anes.upmc.edu or contact the Program Director, Dr. Yan Xu, at SAC@anes.upmc.edu.

Sincerely yours,
